Why VOip?

Spectacular Next Generation Voice For Your Business

Have you thought about voice as an application? Introducing VoIP...cloud-based technology that leverages your business internet service to provide a more robust, cost-effective communication solution. VoIP has brought about incredible feature upgrades, unprecedented convenience and easy set up capabilities to businesses like yours seeking an efficiency-driven edge on their competitors.

Effectively Manage Change
e-vergent's business VoIP package provides virtual access that allows you to control how your voice capabilities adapt to an ever-changing world. Contrary to the traditional landline, VoIP uses bits of data that can be read by other internet-based communication systems. This gives you a flexible platform that doesn't rely on location or hardware to access your calls. Working remotely? No problem. All you have to do is connect to a network, login, and you can forward calls to multiple devices, receive voicemail messages via email and seamlessly transition calls and messages to team members when you're unavailable.

Minimize Risk And Control Your Costs
VoIP eliminates surprise billing. e-vergent's low fixed monthly fee includes unlimited local and long distance calling, phone/hardware upgrades and no costly maintenance agreements. VoIP also offers scalability and true redundancy. Once set up, growing into new technological advances and establishing additional deployments will be a trouble-free process. You'll be able to perform future functions that don't even exist yet today, quickly add voice capabilities to a new location and protect or reroute data in the case of a disaster. VoIP is the epitome of "low risk, high reward".

Improve Productivity And Give Your Business A Competitive Advantage
VoIP employs modern technology to do more with less. You can customize a flexible communication plan that accounts for fluctuation in demand. Make company wide or employee specific changes from one central hub. Bolster your brand with polished professionalism stemming from a more efficient workflow. When your team can focus their resources toward strategizing and performing actual business functions, you'll increase your ability to boost your bottom line.
